Vennor was a little too previous with his frost predictions.

The time will soon come at Albany when it will be found out who are the truest Republicans.

Mr. Conkling resigned "two seats" in the Senate. If he get one back again he may consider himself fortunate.

It will be definitely settled in New York (probably) that when you have a good office, it doesn't pay to resign.

The Republican party is too big and too deep rooted for any one man to split it by resigning his seat in the Senate.

Senator Mahone was called a "dog" on a postal card which went through the mails. The man who sent the card has been indicted.

The Illinois Legislature adjourned on Monday after a session of nearly five months. It proved to be about as useless as any session that State has had for many years.

Senator Sawyer, of this State, was cornered by a Tribune reporter in New York, the other day, when he said nine-tenths of the people of Wisconsin are strongly in favor of the administration as against Senator Conkling.

During the ten years, from 1870 to 1880 the population of the United States increased about 32 per cent. For the same time the total cereal product of the country, according to the late census reports, increased above 100 per cent. This one fact goes far toward explaining the remarkable prosperity now existing in this country.

When Senator Wood'n, of New York, spoke in the Senate one day last week in the senatorial contest, he took a position against Senator Conkling, and in closing a very eloquent speech, he said:

They mistake the sentiment of the country. These remonstrances are but a faint expression of the popular voice which speaks under the inspiration which led to the brilliant achievement at Chicago. It will not, cannot be suppressed. Neither principalities nor powers, nor things present nor things to come, neither height nor depth, nor any other creature or thing shall be able to disrupt the Republican organization or depose it from power.

The Wisconsin State Pioneer associations is to meet in Madison to-morrow to commemorate the beginning of State government and for a general recounting of pioneer experiences. General A. C. Dodge, of Iowa, has given assurance of a purpose to be present and address the gathering. Invitations have also been extended to the Hon. Orsamus Cole, General C. C. Washburn, General Simeon Mills, the Hon. J. T. Lewis and other pioneers of prominence to be present and take part in response to an address of welcome from Governor Smith.

The political indications from Albany are that the two ex-Senators will be badly worsted, and it is the impression of a good many well informed men that when he comes out of the contest he will hardly be recognized by his oldest acquaintances. The condition of Mr. Conkling is illustrated by Pat when he went gunning for the first time. He made one shot and then looked under the tree for his game and found a toad. "Be gorrah!" he exclaimed, "I'd scarcely recognize ye; but ye must 'ave been a foine bird 'fore I shot the feathers off of ye."

During the past five years, there have been 180 persons who have unaccountably disappeared in England, and all leaving property of considerable value behind them. When these persons have been missing long enough to create a reasonable presumption that they are dead, Parliament grants an administration of the estate. A great many of these grants have been made by Parliament, and in only one case has it been found necessary to revoke the grant on account of the missing person being found. One of these absentees has been missing since 1831. A lady, Sarah Counters, of Mandelslone, disappeared in 1857, but Parliament refused to grant an administration of the estate.

For years and years, Friday has been counted an unlucky day, and this peculiar notion seems to effect railway travel. Speaking upon this subject, an old conductor on the Wabash railway, whose experience and observation are of some consequence, says there is always a falling off of travel on Friday, the superstition being so strong that the day is an unlucky one on which to start on a journey. The figures of nearly all the railways show that there is some ground for the theory. Of the passengers carried on the railroads on the six week days, 15 per cent. are carried on Friday, while there is an average of 17 per cent. carried on each of the other days. In other words, there is a falling off of nearly one-eighth as compared with the average of other week days.

It is said that Mr. Blaine first used the word "stalwart" as applied to staunch Republicans. In the Maine contest in 1877, he said:

I trust, also, that both Governors know that the Boston press no longer represents the Stalwart Republican feeling in New England on the pending issues than the same press did when it demanded the enforcement of the Fugitive-Slave law in 1851.

This term is now being used, and improperly too, to designate the Grant faction of the Republican party. The great mass of Republicans, whose who have always been stalwart, who never flinched in battle, who have borne the heat and the burden of many a contest for freedom and human liberty, who have grown gray in the service of the party, who have rejoiced in many a victory of the highest political principles ever put forth in this or any other country, and who still are the same true, unflinching Republicans, are called "half-breeds" and "featherheads." This is a blunder on the part of the Grant and Conkling faction of the party which is first cousin to a crime.

The more this star route business is investigated and studied, the more astounding does the swindle appear. The literature on this subject is rapidly multiplying and is growing in interest. The Union, a newspaper published at Walla Walla, Washington Territory, give a bit of inside history of the "expedited" mail routes in that part of the Territories. It says:

"Expedited" mail routes are no new experience for Walla Walla people. It is only a few years since Uncle Sam paid S. S. Huntley and Co., enormous sums for carrying a daily mail between Walla Walla and Missoula, Montana. Their contract at first called for a weekly mail, but shortly after it was let the service was "expedited" to a daily. This service was regularly performed, on paper, and occasionally a mail was carried through over the Mullan road on horseback. As we recollect, Mr. Charles Moore, then postmaster at Walla Walla, reported that less than a dozen letters passed over the route in three months. To get even with Mr. Moore for making this report, Huntley & Co. had him removed from the office, and their pay went on until their contract expired, since which time a occasional mail has been carried over the Mullan road.

AN INTELLIGENT SNAKE.

How a Mountain Reptile Saved a Child's Life.

Carson (Nev.) Appeal, April 30.

"I want to tell you how my child's life was saved up in the mountains the other day," said a farmer who came into The Appeal office yesterday afternoon. "You don't mind an item with a snake in it, do you?"

Hearing no reply, the old man continued: "Last Tuesday I was coming down from the lake with my little girl, when I stopped the horse and got out to get a drink at a spring, my bottle having given out. While I was drinking the horse got frightened and dashed down the road with the child in the wagon. I only have twelve girls, and wouldn't spoil the set for worlds. Well, I gave up the horse and child for lost, but I followed them up, and presently found the horse right on the edge of a precipice at a dead standstill. He couldn't move an inch. When I got closer I thought that a strap had caught round his fetlock, and one end had also caught round a tree. I went to pull on the strap, and I jumped about ten feet, for bust me clear open if it wasn't a rattlesnake that was holding the horse. He had wound his tail around the horse's leg, and his neck was turned three times around a sapling, and his teeth were fast in the wood. He was twelve feet long, sir, for I measured him right then and there. A few pounds more strain would have snapped the snake clear in two. I got the horse away from the precipice. And I might as well tell you the whole truth; the snake wasn't over five feet long, for when I took the strain off he came right back to his natural size. You know how elastic a snake is. The child is 4 years old, and wasn't frightened in the least. If you put this item in the weekly send me four copies—I want 'em for relatives in the East."

Big Ranches in Texas.

[W. H. H. Murray, in Boston Herald.]

Men talk carelessly about acres and money. It is difficult to realize to the mind large sums of money. Commodore Vanderbilt once told me that he could never realize how much $10,000,000 amounted to. The same is true of large tracts of land. Men talk of 20,000, 40,000 and 50, thousand acres without any realization of the extent of such an acreage. I visited the other day a ranch of 20,000 acres. I intended to make a thorough survey of it—that is to ride around it and across it. I made my survey, but when I learned that the fence which inclosed it was over seventy miles in length I concluded I would inspect it by sections. I did considerable riding in two days, nevertheless, but I didn't ride around it. On the ranch there were 1,500 acres all under the plough, one bit of land nearly as level as a floor, a parallelogram in shape, and the furrow which the plow cut in traveling from one end to the other was three miles in a straight line. It is only after one has visited such an estate and devoted days in riding over it that he realizes what 20,000 acres of land is.

How Bogus Butter is Made.

Oleomargarine is manufactured from beef fat or tallow by taking advantage of the dissimilar melting points of the oleine and stearine of which the fat is composed. The suet or fat from the beeves, after having been carefully washed and cut into small pieces by machines, is put into small kettles, set in water baths to ensure an even temperature of about 120 degrees Fah. This separates the fat from the tissue or scarp, when it is drawn off into another set of kettles and heated to about 180 degrees Fah., for the purpose of driving off all the readily volatile compounds that may be present. This process is called refining and the fat comes out of these kettles beautifully clear and pure. It is then drawn off into tanks and left to stand until it cools to about 90 degrees Fah., when it has reached a semi-liquid state. The fat is then folded into squares of compact duck and subjected to a pressure of 250 or 280 tons. This forces the oleine through the canvas while the stearine remains behind. The oleine is put with cream or more commonly with milk and and about its own weight of butter and churned. After being taken from the churns salt and coloring matter is worked into it and it is ready for the market. If made from good fat and with care there can be nothing unwholesome about it, and although it is not as desirable as good butter, may be far preferable to the wretched articles put into the market for cheap butter. One firm in Boston made during March, 396,565 pounds. It is very likely that large quantities are mixed with real butter and sold.—J. H. Pillsbury.

THE SITUATION.

Probability of a Dead Lock in New York on the Senatorial Fight.

ALBANY, May 30—The Republican members of the Legislature returned to the city this afternoon, and proceeded to the usual routine business. At the close of the session of the Assembly a caucus of the members of that body was called by the caucus committee of the House, pursuant to a request of a majority of the Republican members and of Senators concurring therein. A majority of the Assembly did not attend, however. Owing to the absence of several signers from the city an adjournment was had until Tuesday evening. The opponents of Senator Conkling were very jubilant over the result. They had a conference at the rooms of Senator Harris, which was attended by fifty-five members of both parties. There were thirty-eight in the Assembly caucus. This leaves thirteen members of the two houses who did not attend either conference.

The opponents of Senator Conkling dare not trust themselves in caucus with his friends. They hold the field, and there is a multiplicity of probable and possible candidates. The moment balloting becomes reduced to a few names the concentration will benefit Conkling and Platt, unless there should be developed stronger tendencies toward the other names than yet exists. On this rock the conglomerate opposition is likely to split.

Persistent efforts are made to drag Governor Cornell's name in for the benefit of the opposition. This is done without his authority and against his advice. He is active in the councils of Senator Conkling, with Senator Platt, Vice President Arthur, and Speaker Sharpe, and is rendering valuable aid. All use of his name with the office of Senator is entirely unwarranted.

The outlook at present is that there will be a dead-lock, although there is some hope that a joint caucus will be held to-morrow evening.

CONKLING'S GREAT FOLLY.

WASHINGTON, May 30.—There is an interesting piece of history in relation to the contest between Conkling and the administration which should be made known. On the day following that on which the President sent Robertson's name to the Senate it was known beyond doubt Conkling and the other representatives of New York were greatly dissatisfied. On that day two members of the cabinet called upon the President and suggested a conference should be held between the President on one hand and the Vice-President and the two New York Senators on the other. The President accepted the suggestions and set apart that evening for an interview. The two members of the cabinet made arrangements, as they thought, with the Vice-President and the two Senators for a conference, and it was understood that it should take place at 7:30 at the White House. Afterward Conkling demurred, and refused to go, although his companions were willing to attend. On this account the interview did not take place. The President waited an hour and a half for the expected visitors. It is known that, had that conference been held, an attempt would have been made to readjust the whole matter satisfactorily to all persons concerned.

WISCONSIN REPUBLICANS.

ALBANY, May 30.—The following dispatch was received in this city at a late hour to-night:

MILWAUKEE, May 30.—To Roscoe Conkling—The Republicans of Wisconsin are watching the contest in which you have become so unjustly involved with the deepest solicitude, and earnestly hope for your vindication. Republicans cannot sympathize with an administration apparently bent on the destruction of the party, by the overthrow of its principles and the assassination of its leaders.

STAR ROUTES.

The Postmaster-General and the Attorney-General Hard at Work Compiling Evidence.

WASHINGTON, May 30.—Attorney-General MacVeagh and Postmaster-General James have agreed to have a conference every day this week to consider the details of the various branches of the star-route inquiry, preliminary to submitting additional matter to the grand jury here. The probability is that the case will be thoroughly prepared, and that the grand jury will enter upon serious consideration of it next week. The main indictments which will be found, will be under the conspiracy statute to defraud the government. One reason for the slow progress thus far made in the presentation of different persons for indictment is the extreme difficulty in obtaining evidence to prove conspiracy. The indications are that some of the leading contractors have proposed to turn State's evidence. Without some such aid the Government will have much difficulty in sustaining such prosecution, as great care has been taken to see to it that the official records of the Post-Office Department are, prima facie, correct. It is reported that ex-Senator Dorsey is quiet ill at his home in this city, overcome with the mental strain incident to the star-route sensation, and that his house is under surveillance of secret officers of the government.

TOM PAINE.

Rededicating His Monument at New Rochelle, Westchester County.

NEW YORK, May 30.—The old Thomas Paine monument at New Rochelle, Westchester county, which was originally dedicated on November 12, 1839, but which since that year has gradually become the prey of relic-hunters, having been recut and somewhat remodeled, was this afternoon rededicated in the presence of a large assemblage of spectators. The monument, which is of white marble, stands in an inclosure about twelve feet square by the roadside on the farm which was presented to Paine by the Legislature, and on which he spent a number of the last years of his life. The farm is on what is known as the White Plains road, leading from New Rochelle to that village.

The monument itself is about twelve feet in height, composed of four blocks of marble. On its four sides are cut inscriptions, and the whole is surmounted by an ornamented piece of marble which on this occassion was ornamented with a floral star and two small United States flags. The monument stands about twenty feet from the spot where Paine is buried in the adjoining field. On the front, or side facing the west, the following inscription is cut: "The world is my country; to do good my religion," Paine's motto. "Thomas Paine, anthor of 'Common Sense.'" "The Palaces of Kings are built upon the ruins of the bowers of Paradise,—'Common Sense.'"

GETTYSBURG.

GETTYSBURG, May 30.—Since President Lincoln dedicated the National Cemetery here on Nov. 19, 1863, Gettysburg never presented such a lively appearance as it did to-day. There are at least 15,000 strangers present. Among them are members of the Legislature and several heads of the State departments. Governor Hoyt and staff are not present. Contributions of flowers are very large. The orator of the day, Julius C. Burrows, of Michigan, arrived this morning, and everything is now in readiness for the decoration ceremonies, which will take place between 2 and 3 o'clock. The centre of the square, where the procession is now forming, is one mass of people. Hundreds of veterans went over the battlefield this morning.

RAILWAY SLAUGHTER.

TRENTON, N. J., May 30.—A train on the Pennsylvania railroad, which leaves New York at 3:15, being beind time, was running at full speed nearing Bear Swamp, four miles from Trenton, and ran into an open switch. The Pullman palace car attached to the train only kept the track. All the others left the rails, and one car turned completely over. About a dozen persons are said to have been injured severely, and several others slightly. Augustus Ritter, of Philadelphia, was killed outright. He was trying to get out of the window and was struck by a projecting timbers. Mrs. Lucretia Bennington, age 81, of Sixty-first street, New York, was fatally injured, and died about 6 o'clock. A little girl, a niece of the old lady, was injured in the shoulder.

A BOGUS MASON.

MILWAUKEE, May 30—Marico Bernado Spiro, a confidence man who came to this city to-day from Chicago, was taken in by the police. He was collecting money on the representation that he was a Mason in good standing, showing a certificate drawn by the Zephyr Lodge No. 142, Rio Janeiro. He succeeded in getting considerable money before being arrested. In his possession was a stamp with which he prepared his forged credentials and certificates. The arrest is an important one.

A BIG HAUL.

MILWAUKEE, May 30—Mr. Stanley, the director of the Fifth Avenue Opera company, was robbed of $200 in bank bills last night while the company was performing at the Academy of Music. He left his pocket-book, containing over $1,800, in a coat in the general dressing-room.

"Bill Nye" Talks to Young Men in Regard to a Career.

Young man, what are you living for? Have you an object as dear to you as life, and without the attainment of which you feel that your life will have been a wide, shoreless waste of shadow peopled by the speetres of dead ambitions? Is your consuming ambition to paddle quietly but firmly up the stream of time with manly strokes against the current of public opimon, or to linger along the seductive banks, going in swimming, or, careless of the future, gathering shells and tadpoles along the shore? Have you decided whether you will be a great man and die in the poor-house, and have a nice comfortable monument after you are dead for your destitute family to look at, or will you content yourself to plug along through life as a bank president? These, young man, are questions of moment. They are questions of two moments. They come home to our hearts to-day with terrible earnestness. You can take your choice in the great battle of life, whether you will bristle up and win a deathless name and own almost everybody, or be satisfied with scabs and mediocrity. Why do you linger and fritter away the heyday of life when you might skirmish around and win some laurels? Many of those who now stand at the head of the nation as statesman and logicians were once unknown, unhonored and unsung. Now they saw the air in the halls of Congress and their names are plastered on the temple of fame.

They were not born great. Some of them only weighed six pounds to start with. But they have rustled. They have peeled their coats and made Rome howl. You can do the same. You can win some laurels too if you will brace up and secure them when they are ripe. Daniel Webster and President Garfield and Dr. Tanner and George Eliot were all at one time, poor boys. They had to start at the foot of the ladder and toil upward. They struggled against poverty and public opinion bravely till they won a name in the annals of history, and secured to their loved ones palatial homes, with lightning rods and mortgages on them. So may you, if you will make the effort. All these things are within your reach. Live temperately on $9 per month. That's the way we got our start. Burn the midnight oil if necessary. Get some true, noble-minded young lady of your acquaintance to assist you. Tell her of your troubles and she will tell you what to do. She will gladly advise you. Then you can marry her and she will advise you some more. After that she will lay aside her work any time to advise you. You needn't be out of advice at all unless you want to. She, too, will tell you have made a mistake. She will come to you frankly and acknowledge that you have made a jackass of yourself. As she gets more acquainted with you, and, in her unstudied, girlish way, she will point out your errors, and gradually convince you, with an old chair leg and other arguments, that you were wrong, and after she has choked you a little while, your past life will come up before you like a panorama, and you will tell her so, and she will let you up again. Life is indeed a mighty struggle. It is business.

A Novel, After Emile Zola.

Camille was a scrub girl in a large hotel in Paris. She loved Pierre, a young Gascon who blacked the boots of the guests. Pierre did not know this. Often she stood at the head of the back stairs and watched him scraping the mud from the shoes and humming softly to himself the song that he had learned when a boy. There was no hydrant in the little hallway where Pierre had his office, and often, when the rush of travelers was great, Pierre would have hard work to furnish enough saliva to properly moisten the blacking. At these times, when he had gone to borrow a chew of tobacco from Fauchery, the night clerk, Camille would run quickly down the stairs and spit in the blacking-box. "It will save Pierre's lungs," she would say to herself, "and perhaps some day he will know of my love." Then she would go back to her scrubbing again. Always she thought of Pierre. Like Heloise, her love brought misfortune. One day she was at work in the fourth story of the hotel cleaning a window-sill. Unconsciously she kept scrubbing away at the same place. Lisette, the boss chambermaid, came along. She did not like Camille, because the latter had once charged her with wearing striped stockings after they had gone out of fashion.

"What are you doing?" said Lisette.

"I am scrubbing," answered Camille.

"I should remark," said Lisette, with a brutal laugh. "See, you have worn he paint off that window-sill. What will the landlady say when I tell her of this?" Then she passed on.

A big tear slowly rolled down Camille's nose. "I shall have to pay for painting that window-sill," she said, sadly; "and it will take half my dot. Pierre is too proud to marry a penniless girl. O how I suffer."

She was sadly silent all day, and seemed in a bewildered state, even declining to look at a fashion magazine which Fifine, a second-floor chambermaid who loved Camille dearly, had found in one of the boarder's rooms.

The next morning Camille was at the head of the back stairs looking at Pierre as he cleaned the boots. Presently Lisette came into the hallway where he was seated and began talking to him. Camille leaned eagerly over the bannisters to catch their words, but could hear nothing but a confused murmur. Presently Pierre became demonstrative and attempted to kiss Lisette. She struggled coyly for a little while, but at last became passive. Just as his lips were about to touch hers something came swiftly through the air and felled them to the floor.

Camille had fallen over the bannisters.—Chicago Tribune.

Care of Horses' Legs and Feet.

It is a well-known fact that horses will work and remain sound for many years with legs apparently much out of order. Enlargements take place from blows, where the parts become lined with a thick coat of lymph; and sometimes the body of the bone itself is found thickened from a deposition of bony lamina over the original bone. When all this has been in progress, we question the propriety of any active measures, unless, as is generally the case, a feeling of soreness is exhibited after work by a shifting or favoring of the limb in the stall, or by a "feeling" manner of going on first being taken out of the stable. When the legs are really callous little impression can be made upon them, unless by active measures; but rest and proper attention are the best preservatives of these most essential members of the horse' frame, with the friendly auxiliaries of hot water, flannel bandages and freedom in a box-stall after severe work, and good shoeing at all times. Provided no internal disease attacks the feet, they will not only be as sound and healthy, but in better form from having been properly shod than if they had not been shod at all. Some hoofs, however, having a greater disposition to secrete horn than others, and thus called strong feet, should never remain more than three weeks without being subjected to the drawing knife of the blacksmith, and the shoes properly replaced. Neither should stopping with damp tow be omitted; as moisture, not wet, is beneficial to the health of the foot. Do what we may, however, horses that are required for work on hard roads, or to "go the pace," will always be more or less subject to diseased feet, quite unconnected with shoeing. The action of the hinder legs of horses, reminds us of one useful hint to those who have to use their horses on long journeys. If we follow a well-formed horse, with the free use of his limbs, on a road upon which his footsteps are imprinted, we shall find the hinder foot oversteps the fore foot in the walk, but falls behind it in the slow trot. Exclusive of relief to the muscles by change of action, then, it is safer to vary the pace from a walk to a slow trot on a journey, as causing less fatigue to the hock joint, by which curbs and spavins are freqently thrown out. Add to this, the slow trot is the safest pace a horse goes, because his step is shortest.—Prairie Farmer.

Kindness to Animals.

Not only are the Japanese exceptionally kind to their children, but they are gentle in their treatment of birds and animals. My attention was called to the very important service performed by the crows and a kind of hawk which act as scavengers. We are so accustomed at home to find these birds especially wild and wary, that it is a somewhat startling sight to see them perching on the buildings in a crowded city like Tokio, and swooping down in front of you in quest of food which might otherwise decay and vitiate the atmosphere. The destructiveness and brutality, generally speaking, of the children of Christian nations lead to the stoning of dogs, cats and birds of all kinds. In Japan such a thing is unknown, and a stone thrown at a dog (I speak from experience) is generally answered by an inquiring look, hens hop out of the way, and even cats do not take the hint! Then again, the crows and hawks are never molested, and the result is that all carrion and other stuff left in the streets are pounced upon and carried off immediately.

PERSONAL AND LITERARY.

—Millais is engaged upon a portrait of Mr. Tennyson.

—The man who wrote the libretto of "Billee Taylor" is a reporter on the London Times.

—Messrs. Gilbert and Sullivan are going to call their new opera "Patience"—the name of the dairymaid heroine.

—Mrs. Julia Ward Howe thinks that every teacher threatened with a reduction of salary should become not only a suffragist, but an apostle of woman suffrage.

—Some of Shakespeare's plays are to be performed in London without scenery, as in the olden time, the imagination of the audience being started in the right direction by such placards on the plain wall as "A Room in Macbeth's Castle" and "A Wooded Dell."

—Some of the most notable recent books of travels, recording journeys of no little novelty and risks, have been from the pens of ladies. Reason: because her descriptive powers are much superior to man's, and as a letter writer she has no peer.

—The late Stephen N. Stockwell, managing editor of the Boston Journal, made public bequests amounting to $13,000, divided among nine religious and benevolent institutions. He began life as a compositor on the Worcester Spy, and his first work on the Journal was at the case.

—Mr. Benjamin Fitch, of Buffalo, N. Y., has just given to the Charity Organization Society of that city property amounting to $200,000. It is to be used by Mr. Fitch's desire in founding and maintaining an institution for the physical, moral and intellectual benefit of the poor of Buffalo without distinction of creed or sex.

—One night a burly Englishman who had the faculty of exciting Carlyle to frenzy by talking about O'Connell, called on him, and after a little talk about the weather, at it they went. It was hot and heavy and a fierce and merciless contest. Tea put a brief stop to it, but it soon began again. There were several guests present and Mrs. Carlyle put her foot on the Englishman's, imploring peace. He no sooner felt the pressure than he screamed out: "Why don't you touch your husband's toe, Mrs. Carlyle? I am sure he is far more to blame than I am." The whole company burst out laughing, including Carlyle himself, and tea was finished in comparative tranquility.

HUMOROUS.

—Now that measles are prevalent, mothers as well as astronomers are looking for spots on the son.—Harvard Lampoon.

—Indians never drink to drown sorrow. When they can get anything to drink they have no sorrow to drown.—Boston Post.

—The first sign of spring is the shriek of the housewife: "Wipe the mud off your boots before you come in here."—New Haven Register.

—A true philosopher never argues. He mentally concludes that his opponent is an ass, and keeps his mouth shut.—New York Commercial Advertiser.

—An orange grove of twenty acres costs about $10,000. Now you can understand why the train boy can't possibly sell last year's oranges, lined with saw-dust, for less than ten cents apiece.—Burlington Hawkeye.

—A woman may be so sick all the winter that she can't wear her new bonnet to church, but along towards the middle of April she will manage to crawl out of bed, turn the house upside down, and call it "spring cleaning."—Norristown Herald.

—They had been engaged to be married fifteen years and still he had not mustered up resolution enough to ask her to name the happy day. One evening he called in a particularly spoony frame of mind, and asked her to sing him something tender and touching, something that would "move" him. She sat down at the piano and sang: "Darling, I am growing old."—Brooklyn Eagle.

—Bub's composition on the rhinoceros: The rinozerus lives in Azher and you kant stick a pin in 'im cause hiz werskit iz bilt ov ole stoves Wen a rinozerus iz gonter be kild yu mus alwaze go up to him from before so az he'll kno somethin ov it an' try to' make a place for a bullit to git in. Hiz noze is got a upper teeth that's got no businez ware it iz and if a boy shood set down on it he better sta plugd up with the tooth r'els he'll be all won pore. I'd rather be a polliwog if I waz a rinozerus, tho' I spose if I wuz I woodent.—Yonkers Gazette.

Cabinet Recreations.

The members of the Cabinet sometimes have very amusing interviews with ladies; as the following will illustrate:

Young Lady—"Mr. Secretary, I have called to see if you can tell me when Captain —— is to be ordered away, and where he will go to?"

Secretary—"I really do not know. Do you wish him ordered away?"

Young Lady—"No, indeed" (this with a very conscious look and a slight increase in color); "only if you were I would like to know, you know, for you see," pulling out her handkerchief and putting her little gloved finger in her mouth—a la Maggie Mitchell—"you know, Mr. ——, now don't you?"

Secretary—"How should I?"

Young Lady—"Then I'll tell you" (this with a look of determination). "I'm going to marry him, and if you are going to order him off, why we want to get married before. That is all."

Secretary—"I have not thought of ordering him away, and since he is going to engage in such pleasant business will not."

Young Lady—"Oh! Mr. ——, ain't you good? I'm so glad. Now I'll have plenty of time to get ready."

Another young lady sends in her card and is admitted, when the following colloquy takes place:

Young Lady—"I have called to see if you will not give permission to Lieutenant —— to come here from A——?"

Secretary—"Any of his near relatives sick?" scanning her closely.

Young Lady—"No, sir. His friends want to see him so much, and you can have him come if you want to."

Secretary—"Oh! I see how it is. If you will say he is your sweetheart he shall come."

Young Lady—"Yes, sir, he is!" saying this with both hands hiding her face.

The Secretary says that he gave permission to that officer to come, telegraphing to him to that effect within the hour. All Secretaries are not like the one we are speaking of, so young ladies must not presume upon the above incidents, for they might not be as successful as our two fair friends were.

False Economy.

There is a vast amount of false economy in business, and it has found its way to the homes of many of our farmers. True economy, not parsimony, is the basis of success, and this is as true in the farmer's occupation as in any other. The farmer who objects to giving his son a liberal education on the ground that he is going to be "nothing but a farmer," is putting into practice a most unwise and injudicious principle of economy. Such an one will not buy books, or take papers, which rightly perused, would give him great assistance in his work, simply because he thinks he "cannot afford them."

His poor farming tools are "good enough for him," though on every hand he witnesses the rapidity and thoroughness of the work done by improved machinery in the hands of truly economical farmers—economical because they choose methods by which they can do their work most quickly and, at the same time, most efficiently. The "economic" farmer wishes to make money, so he sells off entire those crops which, returned in part to his soil in the shape of manure, would make his land much more productive, forgetting that the soil needs a certain amount of food in order to produce. He disposes of his best calves and colts, because "being nicer they will bring a better price," and he retains the poor offcasts for breeders—a sure step toward ignominous failure in stock-keeping. The time is come when our best farmers are cutting loose from these misleading principles, and are taking broader views of things, and when this false economy should be superseded by the true.—Rural New Yorker.

—Jelly Cake.—Beat three yelks of fresh eggs with one cupful of powdered sugar, very light, then add one cupful of flour, in which you have previously mixed one teaspoonful of baking powder, and lastly the whites of the eggs, beaten to a stiff froth. This quantity will make three layers of cake on tins which are no larger than seven and one-half inches in diameter. When cooled spread jelly on two layers, lay them on each other carefully and sprinkle with powdered sugar.

—The new settlers of Texas will find plenty of elbow room, if nothing else. One of them writes that he has "the Rio Grande for a bath-tub, and all Mexico for a back yard.

H. A. PATTERSON. P. M.

Old-Fashioned Massachusetts.

This is an expensive age. Our richest men began with mere nothing but their brains and hands, and with little education. Chester W. Chapin, one of the richest men in Massachusetts, when he was twenty-one years old let himself out to work twelve to fourteen hours a day for $12 a month, farming and teaming from the armory to the boats on the Connecticut River; but he laid his money up. Now you would insult a young stripling of eighteen years to offer him such wages. He was the Tax Collector in 1822 for the town of Springfield. His fees were $80 for collecting $8,000—the whole taxes for that town. He pays more taxes now than the whole town did then. It cost more time and travel to collect them then than now. The people were so scattering and they were so afraid of a Tax Collector, he said, some would run and hide up stairs or down cellar when they saw him coming, and in some instances he hunted them up in their hiding-places after their family said they "wasn't there!" After finding the delinquent he would get a part of the tax money and go again for the rest or pay it himself. He has paid in this way hundreds of dollars, finding it easier to earn the money than to collect it. Money was scarce and worth something then. I recollect in 1825 or '26, in our town meeting, the proposition was to raise for the coming year $14,000 for the town of Springfield, Oliver B. Morris arose and objected by saying: "What are we coming to? It is astonishing that pride and ambition, or fashion should demand such a tax." But they overruled the old man, and he lived to see pride, fashion and ambition rise much higher. A great change surely.

The fashion in those days I recollect. When my mother was going to get a new dress, or gown, as it was called then, the woman that was engaged to come to the house to cut and make it told her she was so tall and large she must get six yards for it. Five yards was a common pattern, and fifty cents for cutting and making and a dinner found. What a change from that day to this! The cloth cost $1 and the making fifty cents, and the dress was worn to meeting. The fashion and pay of the preachers has changed. The first Methodist preacher in our town got $100 for one year's salary, and if he had a present of a pair of socks he must report it. The second preacher had a wife, and got $150. The third preacher had a wife and three children, and $35 was added for each child. Bishop Hedding in our time got less than $75 a year. Also Priest Clough and Lorenzo Dow less than either. Our old Methodist preachers worked for a living and for God, instead of a reputation and a salary.

I was thinking about the fashions in domestic affairs, say music, fifty-five years ago. Governor Trask and I met at Monson for Thanksgiving, with the family where he got his wife—at old Uncle Saul Squires', uncle to us both. Their house music was, for treble, the flax spinning-wheel, played or run by one of the girls; for the tenor, the large spinning-wheel, played by another girl; for bass, the old lady whacking away at the old loom, all working to make their music profitable and healthy. The fashion of those days was to have a good, healthy family of from eight to ten children, all learnt to work for a living. What a change! Instead of a good, healthy family now, all up in the morning early to work, we see from one to three little pimping children, with a sickly mother, not able to take care of two as easily as our mothers would ten, fifty years ago, without a hired girl. The children now must be in fashion—be in bed until eight or nine in the morning, no appetite, little vitality. They play on some kind of instrument, and go to school to be crowded with more kinds of lessons than our old school teachers ever knew. But this is the fashion and pretended improvement of the age. Perhaps this generation does not look at these things as I do, but I think that health, economy and morality are not improved by getting high wages or a fashionable education. This generation will spend what its fathers have earned. Generally it is watching the pulse of the man who has property, longing for the time to come when it will come in possession of what it has not earned. It is a known fact that the rising generation are spendthrifts.

Another great change is in the mode of traveling. Fifty years ago we had to go through the country by stages, at the fast speed of seven miles an hour. This was much faster than the common farmers traveled. It was considered a great treat to take the stage at old Jeremy Warriner's tavern—start at four o'clock in the morning and get to Boston at nine in the evening, if the going was good. When the fare was reduced to five dollars, two of us worked two weeks to get money enough to pay our fare to Boston, eighty-eight miles. The young men in these days earn enough in one day to pay their fare, and go in three hours instead of seventeen. Our conductors get for driving their team through to Boston $3 or $4, and the old stage-drivers got $12 a month. This was Chester W. Chapin's standard price in those days. Connecticut River steamboats, started by Blanchard, fifty-five years ago, cut down the fare to Hartford to $1, which enabled us all to go to Hartford and back in one day for $2 and stay four hours in Hartford. This was another great treat for $2, costing us five days' work. Now young men can earn enough in half a day, and go and back in the other half.—H. Munger, in Springfield (Mass.) Republican.

Soot in Horticulture.

Soot is a despised thing, at which everyone lifts up his or her hands in horror. Yet it is one of our most valuable fertilizers, and for boosting insects it stands very high. The soot from soft coal is the best, and any one who wastes it wastes wealth; for we need every ounce in the gardens and fields of the country. This is no whim or theory; its uses are well known to every practical gardener. Our cabbage-fields and gardens are all visited with the common whitish-yellow butterflies each year, yet this insect is easily driven to seek its food in some other place if soot is sprinkled over the plants on mornings, or when they are wet. The writer had once charge of a garden where it had been unfortunate in the production of any of the cabbage family, from cauliflowers to Brussel sprouts. Soot solved the problem. The operations were to first scatter a thin coat of soot on the soil, where the seed had to be sown. This was worked in so as not to touch the seed, either with a rake or fork, for it is fatal to seed if touched when germinating, but after the roots begin to spread they like it. The wire worm that makes all the cabbage tribe form a club-shape at the bottom of the stem and stops them from forming proper roots rarely ever does this mischief. Our professors have been trying to make "club root" in the cabbage tribe a disease, but if soot is used as described the disease is seldom or never seen. After cabbage plants of any kind are raised and ready to plant out for heading, if their roots and stems, right up to the leaves, are dipped in a paint made of soot. soil, and water just thick enough to stick to them, few ground insects will attack them. Land where carrots, turnips, or onions have to be sown is always benefited if a good dressing of soot is applied. The turnip crop is an important one in England, and were it not for a free use of soot it could not be grown, nor could wheat; and it is a common thing to see a train of soot leaving the large towns for the market gardening and farming districts. Here is a new source of employment for American citizens, and if it were collected as in England it would sell.

If rose-bushes were dressed about the first week in May with soot, when they are moist, we should not see those bad-looking roses or bushes that we so often see now, that look, in fact, as if they had been burned when the little caterpillar has feasted on them a few days. The caterpillar that goes by the name of roller-fly, because it rolls itself up in the leaves of roses and other things and eats into the buds of roses, when feasting is driven away by soot sprinkled over the bushes freely about the latter end of April or beginning of May, as it is about that time that the eggs begin to hatch that have been laid on the bushes, and it is well to repeat the dose about a week before the roses are likely to open. The soot will generally be pretty well off before the roses are fit to gather, and ladies will not be annoyed by finding a big, ugly grub inside their handsome flowers; the smell of the soot is soon gone, when it is exposed to the atmosphere, as its smell is chiefly ammonia, which is very volatile.

Soot increases the color of the leaves and flowers of most plants, and gives a vigorous growth.

A gentleman at Indianapolis, who was advised to use soot to drive insects from his plants, reports that his wife thought that he had killed her pets, and after a few days he thought the plants grew so fast that the insects could not catch them, and now he gets a barrel of soot from a round-house to use on his garden, every week.

The pretty, yellow-stripped bug that attacks our squashes and cucumbers has no affinity for soot or ashes, and soon leaves for other places, where it don't get such seasoning at its meals.

Apply soot whenever the leaves of plants are moist, and four or five dressings in a year are not too much. Soot and flour of sulphur in equal parts mixed in thin flour paste make a paint for all kinds of trees that does not injure them, but makes them grow as it washes off, and will keep insects and rabbits, mice, or other vermin from them if applied to the stems three or four times a year; and mildew will seldom be seen when this mixture is frequently used on vines or other things subject to it.—Cor. Chicago Times.

Startling Scene in a Menagerie.

A lion-tamer, a colored man named Alicamousa, came very near being torn to pieces by an infuriated lion during a performance in a menagerie at Birmingham, England, a short time ago. The animal is a vicious one, and a few days previously had shockingly mangled one of the attendants, whom Alicamousa rescued. The lion afterwards showed symptoms of resentment at the severe punishment the tamer was obliged to inflict upon him at that time and several times afterward. One Saturday afternoon there was a great attendance, and the lion-tamer gave two performances. The first was concluded in safety, but as Alicamousa made his second entry into the den, the large lion sprang at him and had to be beaten back. While proceding across the cage, the lion-tamer unfortunately lifted his eyes from those of the lion, which was upon him immediately, amid the shrieks of the immense crowd of spectators. Alicamousa was clawed on both sides of the face, struck to the ground, and bitten in the arm. The red hot irons were at once thrust between the bars, and the man wriggled like an eel from beneath the lion, the blood streaming down his face and shoulders. He discharged his revolver three times in the lion's mouth, and, gaining his feet, placed his back against the side of the cage and attacked the animal with his loaded whip, hitting it repeatedly between the eyes until it was almost stunned. The encounter had been watched with breathless anxiety, but as the lion-tamer left the den the crowd gave vent to their excited feelings by enthusiastically cheering him. He was not seriously injured.

NERVOUS DEBILITY

SOLD IN A YEAR

AND SPERMATORRHŒA.

A valuable Discovery and New Departure in Medical Science, an entirely New and positively effective Remedy for the speedy and permanent Cure of Seminal Emissions and Impotency by the only true way, viz: Direct Application to the principal Seat of the Disease, acting by Absorption, and exerting its specific influence on the Seminal Vesicles, Ejaculatory Ducts, Prostate Gland, and Urethra. The use of the Remedy is attended with no pain or inconvenience, and does not interfere with the ordinary pursuits of life; it is quickly dissolved and soon absorbed, producing an immediate soothing and restorative effect upon the sexual and nervous organizations wrecked from self-abuse and excesses, stopping the drain from the system, restoring the mind to health and sound memory, removing the Dimness of Sight, Nervous Debility, Confusion of Ideas, Aversion to Society, etc., etc., and the appearance of premature old age usually accompanying this trouble, and restoring perfect Sexual Vigor, where it has been dormant for years. This mode of treatment has stood the test in very severe cases, and is now a pronounced success. Drugs are too much prescribed in these troubles, and, as many can bear witness to, with but little if any permanent good. There is no Nonsense about this Preparation. Practical observation enables us to positively guarantee that it will give satisfaction. During the eight years that it has been in general use, we have thousands of testimonials as to its value, and it is now conceded by the Medical Profession to be the most rational means yet discovered of reaching and curing this very prevalent trouble, that is well known to be the cause of untold misery to so many, and upon whom quacks prey with their useless nostrums and big fees. The Remedy is put up in neat boxes, of three sizes. No. 1, (enough to last a month,) $3; No. 2, (sufficient to effect a permanent cure, unless in severe cases,) $5; No. 3, (lasting over three months, will stop emissions and restore vigor in the worst cases,) $7. Sent by mail, sealed, in plain wrappers. Full DIRECTIONS for using will accompany EACH BOX.

My practice, not one of experiment, but founded on the laws of Nature, with years of experience and evidence to sustain it, does not tear down, make sick to make well; no harsh treatment, no trifling, no flattering. We know the cause and the remedy needed; no guess work, but knowledge gained by years of experience in the treatment of Chronic Diseases exclusively; no encouragement without a prospect. Candid in our opinions, reasonable in our charges, claim not to know everything or cure everybody, but do lay claim to reason and common sense. BRIEFLETS.

—Good by, May.

—The county supervisors gather to-morrow.

—The country got a glorious wetting down last night.

—The soda-water business is the only one which pays best when it fizzles out.

—Mrs. Lucinda Phillips left yesterday for Montreal, Canada, to visit relatives for a few weeks.

—C. E. Moseley's family start to-morrow for an eastern trip, and an extended visit to friends.

—The Knights of Pythias will work in the second degree to-night, and a full attendance is desired.

—Preparations are being made at the Methodist churches for the observance of children's day, one week from next Sunday.

—Patrick Quigley, of Johnstown, for being drunk and disorderly was this morning fined $5 and costs by Police Justice Nolan. Paid.

—Carpenters report a great deal of repairing and improvements to residence property this season, rather than a rush of new buildings. They are all kept busy, though.

—At the commencement exercises of the Wisconsin Female College at Fox Lake, Prof. J. P. Haire, of this city, is to give the address before the Clionian Society, on the 13th of June.

—The strawberry festival of the First Methodist church has been postponed until Wednesday evening, June 8, when it will be held at Cannon's hall, for the benefit of the Sunday school.

—Mell Hughes, while gallantly riding in Beloit yesterday, was kicked by the horse of a fellow-equestrian, but fortunately the injury did not prove very serious, consisting only of a cut on the leg from which it is expected he will speedily recover.

—The trial of James Grant for assaulting Martin O'Niel occupied nearly the whole forenoon in the Police Court. The testimony was all put in except that of one witness, who was absent, and the case was adjourned until to-morrow morning at which time it will probably be concluded. O'Niel's face still bears the marks of the row, he having been badly pummelled.

—One of the Beloit committee who was to provide horses for the Knights of Pythias yesterday, put on his collegiate dignity as he looked through his glasses in all directions and remarked—Well those equines do not seem to materialize." This seemed to surprise one of the Janesville Knights, who spoke up "Why, is that all that's the matter? I thought you couldn't get them."

—The Knights of Pythias had their souls tried yesterday. They shipped their saddles by train to Beloit, with the promise of having horses furnished them on their arrival there. By some mismanagement the horses were lacking, and they consequently could not join in the parade. They didn't feel good about it at all, but those who remained and partook of the bountiful spread provided for their appetites, had their wrathful feelings greatly soothed, and even got up a smile.

—Mr. Welsh, who has made his home with James Bowen, near the Institution for the Blind, died last night. He has for two years suffered with a cancer on his arm, necessitating the amputation of that member about a year ago, since which time it has continued to trouble him more and more, and finally caused death. He leaves a wife and two children, and his remains were this afternoon taken to Lone Rock, Wis., his former home, where they will be interred.

—One of the incidents of Decoration day at Beloit was an amateur prize fight, which was arranged between a colored man and a white one. The parties agreed to meet just over the State line, and on getting there the white man was found to have too much spiritual inspiration, and not to be in a very good conditi. n He came up to the scratch smiling, but one thump from the dusky fist laid him out, and the man of color won first blood. This was the only and deciding round, the white man being unable to come up again.

—Here it is the last day of May, and yet County Clerk Morgan had to have a fire in his office grate this morning. He had to have it though not to keep warm, but to destroy some old papers, and some wolves' scalps so that they could not be presented for bounty again, the law requiring him to destroy them. The other day C. E. Lee, of Center, brought in five scalps, for which he drew a bounty from the State and county of $55. This month has seen the most successful wolf-hunting of any month in two years, the total number of scalps taken being twenty, on which the total bounties reach $220. Still the wolves are not all captured, and they occasionally make a raid on the sheep.

—The Chicago & Northwestern railway company, with its usual enterprise, has arranged to place upon the trains of its Council Bluffs, Denver and California, line the most modern, complete and comfortable dining cars in existence. No expense has been spared in building those cars, and they are in fact palace hotels on wheels. The meals to be served will include all the delicacies of the season, and are furnished passengers at seventy-five cents each, while those desiring only lunch can be provided at low rates. All having occasion to make the trip between Chicago and Council Bluffs, or any point in the West, should bear in mind that this road offers all the advantages and improvements known to the modern railway, while rates are so reasonable as to bar out all fault-finding.

—The big whale is here. The tent is pitched alongside of All Souls church on Court street, and the bones are to-day being put in place, and other preparations being made to open the exhibition to-morrow morning. This skeleton claims rank as the largest articulated skeleton in the world. It certainly is a monster. The skull alone weighs 1,465 pounds, and one of the strange facts is that the brain cavity of this immense head, is no larger than the head of an ordinary man. The immense skeleton is well worth seeing, and gives one a clearer and better idea of what a big whale is than can be well gained in any other manner. There are in the museum other curiosities of the ocean, thus making an exhibition which promises to interest as well as instruct all who attend it. The museum will be open all of this week.

THE WEATHER.

REPORTED BY PRENTICE & EVENSON, DRUGGISTS.

The indications to-day are, for the upper lake region, slightly cooler, fair weather, north and east winds, and rising barometer, followed by falling barometer in the western sections.

SUDDEN DEATH.

Last evening about 9 o'clock Mrs. Frank Pfeiffer, while about her home as usual, complained of feeling poorly, and seemed to be choking up. She whispered that she feared she was dying, a fear which was well grounded, for while her husband had gone to a neighbor's for help, she breathed her last, there being hardly five minutes elapsing from the warning symptom and death itself. She had been in apparently good health before her death, and during the day had been engaged in active duties as usual, so that her death comes as a sudden blow indeed to husband and family. Mrs. Pfeiffer was a sister of James Croft, the ex-street commissioner, and had other relatives and many friends and acquaintances here. Besides her husband she leaves a number of daughters, until to one and all of these thus called so suddenly to mourn, the sympathy of many friends of the family will be extended.

FROM STUDENT TO SOLDIER.

Major S. S. Rockwood, who delivered the oration on Decoration day, at Madison, gave in his address the following reminiscence concerning one of Janesville's well-known attorneys:

Twenty years ago the 17th of last month, two young men from yonder university on the hill, slowly sauntered down to the armory where Captain Fairchild was re-organizing the old Governor's Guard. The talk was not of books and lessons, but of war and the preservation of the Union, whose brilliant banner flamed from every house-top. Once within the hall where the gallant fellows were pressing forward, eager to win a place in the ranks, the younger student said: "We have been studying history long enough. Here is a chance to make some. I think I'll take a hand at it." His name went down on that first muster roll and he took his place in the ranks, while I was left standing there alone, wondering not less at his ready patriotism than at his ready philosophy. That young man was Capt. Pliny Norcross, of Janesville, who stood before you some years ago to utter glowing words of tribute and remembrance in honor of the sleeping heroes whose dark chambers we this day light with the brightest flames of spring.

AN UNRIVALED HAIR DRESSING.

Producing as Rich and Cleanly Appearance as if Nature Alone Had Imparted It.

BURNETT'S COCOAINE is the best and cheapest Hair Dressing—kills dandruff, allays irritation, and promotes a vigorous and healthy growth of the hair. No other compound produces these results. The superiority of BURNETT'S FLAVORING EXTRACTS consists in their perfect purity and great strength. They are warranted free from the poisonous oils and acid which enter into the composition of many of the factitious fruit flavors now in the market.

CHALLENGE ACCEPTED.

NO, YOU DAREN'T.

To the Janesville Medical Students:

We hereby challenge you to a match game of base ball next Monday afternoon, June 6, at such a place as will be convenient for both sides.

JANESVILLE PILL PEDDLERS.

May 31, 1881.

YES WE DARE.

To the Pill Peddlers of Janesville:

We accept your challenge to play a game of base ball Monday afternoon, June 6, and would suggest that the game be played on the grounds west of the Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul railroad, near the residence of J. H. Kinney.

MEDICAL STUDENTS.

May 31, 1881.

MILTON.

—C. C. Ball fell from a load of baled rags last Friday, striking on his shoulder and breaking his collar-bone. Doctor Borden set the broken bone and the patient is able to be about, but will not be able to use his arm for some time. Had it not been for a sack of rags that blocked a wheel the wagon would have run over Mr. Ball.

—Last Wednesday night a young Norwegian came to the depot here and when discovered next morning by Agent Tomkins seemed to be suffering from a mild form of insanity. He remained in the waiting room until Friday afternoon when he wandered away and has not been seen in this village since. He claimed to have walked from Watertown Wednesday, and said he wanted to go to Minnesota. The opinion prevails that he was suffering from the effects of a mild sunstroke. He refused food and spent his time while here in moaning and praying in his own language.

—Rev. I. S. Eldridge and wife, of Sun Prairie, were in town last week, visiting relatives and friends.

—Prof. J. M. Stillman arrived in town last Wednesday and remained here until this week, when he left for New York State. Since leaving here last winter Prof. Stillman has been in Minnesota, Dakota and Iowa, and a greater part of the time has been blockaded at various points where food and lodgings were hard to be got, and as a consequence is looking rather thin. He is under engagement as musical director of the Iowa State Musical Festival, which meets at Clear Lake, July 25th to August 2d.

—Mr. White, of Independence, Kansas, brother-in-law of Oran Vincent, arrived in town last week. He was accompanied by Cora Goodrich, of that place, who will reside here for a time with her uncle, H. G. Hamilton, and go to school.

—J. C. Davidson shipped a car load of stock to Chicago on Friday.

—Milton was well represented at the circus on Saturday, but a larger delegation will take in the Forepaugh show, as every body thinks his entertainment beats anything in the circus line now on the road.

—Borden is furnishing bills of lumber to parties who are nearer other markets, an evidence that he makes low figures. He has a well-assorted and large stock in his yard.

—Every carpenter in town is full of business and there is a demand for more workmen than can be found.

—Williams & Borden shipped a car load of stock to Milwaukee last Thursday night. Hogs are bringing $5.50 in this market and cattle almost any price asked.

—A goodly number of Seventh Day Baptists went to Walworth on Friday to attend the quarterly meeting of that denomination.

—J. B. Anderson shipped six car loads of oats, wheat and barley last week. He is paying top-notch prices for all kinds of grain.

—Remember that the original Tennesseans sing here next Tuesday night at the S. D. B. church, and that part of the proceeds go into the college improvement fund.

—Miss Cuckoo was unable to teach last week owing to illness, and Miss A. M. Johnson filled the vacancy in an acceptable manner, and will continue to until Miss Cuckoo is able to resume her duties.

—Joe Davis had a maple sheding last Sunday. Undress maples are very fashionable here this spring, but in this case, beauty unadorned is not just what she ought to be.

—Assessor Marquart is making his annual pilgrimage among the property owners and those who have nothing rejoice and are exceedingly glad.

"The Origin of The Name Artemus Ward"

There has been not a little speculation as to how Brown came by his nom de plume, "Artemus Ward." Dr. Shattock says, that having some confidential business with him during one of his last visits to Waterford, he took occasion to enquire in particular about it. Brown said it was in this wise: While engaged at the "Plain-Dealer" office, in Cleveland, Ohio, he made the acquaintance of an eccentric old gentleman whose actual name was Artemus Ward, though assuming some more pretentious titles. This man was in the show business having a few "wax figgers," birds, "snaix," and a kangaroo. While waiting on the printers for his bills he amused Brown by telling an endless number of anecdotes, all of which were duly treasured up. Among these were some of the incidents in Brown's article entitled "Edwin Forrest as Othello." He referred to the following as one of the contributions of the original Artemus Ward:

"Ed was acting at Niblo's Garding but let that pars. I sot down in the pit, took out my spectacles, and commenced peroosin' the bill, a grave young man who sat near me axed me if I'd ever seen Forrest dance the Essence of old Virginny.

"'He's immence in that,' sed the young man. 'He also does a fair champion jig,' the young man continued but this big thing is the Essence of old Virginny.

'Sez I:

"'Fair youth, do you know what I'd do with you if you was my sun:

"'No,' sez he.

"'Wall,, sez I, I'd appint your funeral to morrow arternoon and the korps should be ready! You're too smart to live on this earth."

The old man claimed himself to be the hero of this story. Brown, however, wanted the credit of correcting the spelling and of dressing the stories up in good literary style. Pleased with the name, attached it to several of his comic productions, and finding that it took with the public, adopted "A. Ward" as his own.—Scribner for May.

ROBERT HODGE,
HERMAN BUCHHOLZ.

Dated Janesville, May 23d, 1881.

READ THIS.

Having purchased Mr. Hodge's interest in the Carriage Manufactory business, I shall continue the same at the old stand, where I shall keep a full line of Carriages, Phactons and Buggies of my own make, and in the future continue to make a class of work equal to that ever made by the old firm. Thanking all our old friends for past favors, I extend a cordial invitation to all, and as many new customers as will favor me with a call.

HERMAN BUCHHOLZ.

MISCELLANEOUS.

YOU'RE ANOTHER.

WHAT?

One of those who wants to know where to get the most and the best goods for his money. It don't make any difference whether the sun shines or not, we keep getting in goods and selling them every day—except Sunday. We can, and do, and will sell goods for less money than any corner store in town. We've got a light store but not a light stock. Our Boys' and Youths' Clothing cannot be equalled in this city. And talk about custom work! Why we have got to import more workmen! Only first-class hands need apply, for we won't have any but the very best work. Remember the old stand three doors west of the Postoffice.
